Three cheers for Grover, France and the baby.

Wonder if Grover knows how to pin on a diaper. If he don't let him stop this way and we'll give him a pointer or two.

Banker Theodore Schwartz, of Louisville, has been acquitted by a Shelbyville judge. He got out on a mere technicality of the law.

During the quarter ending September 30, according to Dunn's Merchandise Agency, there were 2754 failures in the United States.

Green Keller is not so certain whether he will win the race for clerk of the Legislature or not. Though he talks a good deal in his sleep.

Grayson county is maintaining a pretty good record for lawlessness. Circuit Court is in session over there and there are 183 criminal prosecutions on the docket.

Very Woodson is often seen in close conversation with Gov. Brown. It is believed that Mr. Woodson could be induced to become a Railroad Commissioner, or "something like that."

There is more trouble in the Pension Bureau. Commissioner Hamm has demanded the resignation of three clerks in his office, whom he charges with plotting to ruin his character.

The negroes of Pennsylvania are putting up a job on the Republican party. Only a few days ago they resolved to organize themselves in the interest of the Democratic party, and vote that ticket for a change.

Those soldier boys who threatened to resign some time ago had as well do so, or make up their minds to live on plain rations while in camp. Gen. Crook says emphatically that he will not tolerate any extravagant bills.

Jim Walker, colored, of this city, has come to Frankfort to act as porter in Gen. Crook's office. The Republican believes in rewarding the colored man who was faithful to the Democratic party, and Jim has been one of them. The place pays thirty-four dollars a month.

Gov. Brown has announced as the Commissioners to revise the Statutes: John D. Carroll, of Henry county; William C. McCord, of Washington and James C. Sims, of Wayne. These men are all lawyers of excellent ability and attainments, and are well fitted to perform the important work that is before them.

The Hon. Harvey Watterson, father of Mr. Henry Watterson, died in Louisville last Friday. Mr. Watterson was one of the old school politicians in this country, and like his son, had a national reputation. The announcement of his death will be received throughout the country with general sorrow.

It is said that the entry of Mercury into Louisville this fall will probably be for the last time. The satellites and the procession, and the big ball was all a very good show, but it has ceased to attract large crowds to the city. The men are ready for a change, and if Louisville wants to draw a crowd next year she will have to get up altogether a new show.

This new Constitution has been signed, sealed and delivered and is now the law of the land. It has been argued that the new instrument will bring about more litigation among the people of the State than they have had for the past half a century. Whether this be true or not, there is one thing pretty evident, and that is, it will be good a long time before the people can have any clear idea as to what the law is, on account of the various changes that have been adopted. This may be one feature that will bring on litigation, the failure to understand the law as it is. Lawyers themselves and the judges also will be some time in familiarizing themselves with the changes made by the new Constitution, and when that is the case, how are the great mass of the people to know anything about it when they are not expected to give it a close study. Long usage of the old Constitution and the statutes have rendered it, had brought the people to understand both fairly well, but that they are now to be altogether revised it will require many years of study to understand either.

Postmaster John P. Howell of this city, agreeable to the request of the Postmaster General, has visited all the post-offices in this county and made his report. He says he found some of the offices kept in excellent condition, while others were not so good. The great difficulty in a great many offices was the want of the proper instruction as to their management. The mail facilities have been greatly improved in recent years, and twenty-one offices out of thirty-seven in the county are supplied with mail six days in the week. Mr. Howell improved the condition of every office in the county and was very agreeably entertained by the people in his rounds. In or go away. Scott reaching for his gun, however, caused him to "get a move on himself." By the time the gun was procured and shells, found and slipped into the chambers there was nothing but the noise of fleeing footsteps to fire at which was without effect, and the scamp after he had gotten out of shotgun range, had the gall to stop and curse back.

The city was full of school teachers last Saturday, who had come in to get the money the day, but were sadly disappointed when they were informed that it had not yet arrived from Frankfort and that the state was only able to pay half the amount due the first Saturday in October. This is the first school for the Constitutional Convention. The next half will fall upon the farmers and householders generally when the taxes are raised to supply the deficit in the Treasury and to run the state government under the new arrangement of things. There will be some old here kicking and some of these fellows that blowed around about much last summer about the "People's Constitution" will feel like administering a good kicking to themselves.

The re-districting of the county by the school superintendent is a matter of much importance to every teacher, trustee and patron in Meade county. The many conflicting boundary lines causing many pupils to be reported from two and sometimes more than one school, and the smallness of some districts causing them to be of hardly any practical benefit whatever to those who are enrolled in them. Creates a great deal of disturbance and dissatisfaction throughout the county and makes this re-districting almost an absolute necessity. While the purpose of the Superintendent is to correct these irregularities and to give longer terms and better facilities to those districts which now have little or no school at all, it is his desire that it shall be done in such a manner, that now existing good schools shall not be injured.

For this reason he desires that all trustees and persons interested in the schools of the county look into this matter and give him all the information possible. As the welfare of the common schools is something that deeply concerns the whole people of Meade county. The opinions of any and every patron on this subject should be given due consideration. Nothing should be done hastily and every proposed change of boundary should be well discussed and thoroughly understood by those whom it will affect directly.

It is a most wonderful remedy. Have used it in quite a number of cases of diphtheria, and am glad to say it has not failed in a single instance." For sale by all dealers.

A Talk on Hats.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" may have been sound philosophy in ye olden time, but uncrowned heads are very uncomfortable these days. True, styles in crowns have changed somewhat and this may account for it. It is now the privilege of every sovereign citizen of this free land to wear a high hat or a low hat, narrow or broad brim, hard or soft, round or square, or perchance a straw hat—that symbol of summertime serenity.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

The Owensboro Fair this week.
The colored school opened in Pierce's Hall Monday.

Cheaper than the cheapest is the furniture at Jordan & Co's.

Mrs. Phillip Ditschbach is confined to her bed with malaria fever.

Pats, delicate women should use Yunnan Chili Tonic. Price 50c.

A. L. Oles is putting down a vitrified pavement in front of his residence on Second street.

The city council is utilizing the vitrified brick for a valley across First street in the East end.

To-morrow is Cloverport's day at the Owensboro Fair. And she'll be there in her best bib and tucker.

Miss Matthews has not yet made her appearance at the post-office and Miss Hendon still looks a little blue.

Visitors to the Owensboro Fair this week should not fail to take in the play at the Temple theatre. It is a good one.

Rev. W. K. Penrod preached in the Walnut street Baptist church, Owensboro, Sunday at 11 A. M.

There will be a spelling match at Mattingly, Friday night October 9th. Good spellers from other districts are invited.

Special trains will leave this city every morning at 8 o'clock for the Owensboro Fair for the round trip $1.15. Don't fail to go.

Call on us after pricing clothes and we will duplicate any bill less 5 and 10 percent. We mean what we say. G. W. Jordan & Co.

Leonard Oles it is said, will be Miss Matthews' deputy in the post-office. Miss Jennie Smith is also spoken of in that connection.

Everybody's talking, wondering and a one are even puzzled to know how Geo. W. Jordan & Co. could afford to sell furniture at the prices they are offering.

Rev. I. B. Timberlake, new Albany, came down Monday, spent the day here and continued his journey to Henderson. This city was too lonely for him.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church, this city, will give an oyster supper in Fisher's Hall next Friday night week. Tell it to your neighbors and friends.

Competition and advertising in the News makes business. There has been more furniture sold in town during the past two weeks than for two months before.

The cheapest place in South-western Kentucky to buy furniture is at G. W. Jordan & Co's, new furniture house. They will sell you furniture from 5 to 10 percent less than any other dealer in the country.

Miss Katharine Bowmer left last Saturday to absent several months. She will spend several weeks at Henderson from there she goes to Texas to spend the winter with friends and relatives.

Mayor Pierce deems a meeting of the citizens at Fisher's Hall on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Business of great importance to everyone will be presented for consideration. Your presence is earnestly requested.

Some things are shameful both to the individual who sins and the community against which he sins. A crying sin and hence a shame to the owners and the community is the condition of the pavement around the Cloverport Hotel. Preliminary to being the chief hotel of the city and inviting the public to its guests are endangered by the worn, torn out and unworkable pavement. An eyesore and nuisance it is allowed to grow in its place. The city council should require a new pavement or shut up the tavern.

J. W. Brainerd went to Chicago Sunday.

David Duncan went to Louisville last week.

Mrs. Wm. Hall returned from Louisville Monday.

New corn is selling from wagons at 40 cents per bushel.

Circuit Court convenes at Harlanburg next Monday week.

Yucatan Chili Tonic is rapidly making friends where a tonic is needed. Price 50c.

Lannie Smith, of Owensboro, is to be congratulated. It's a boy, born, Sept. 30th.

There are several patches of grass on the streets yet. Has the Mayor overlooked them?

Mr. Frank Beavin and wife returned last week from a visit to Covington, his wife's old home.

Joe Lewis has the contract for building two depots, one at Glendean and one at the Falls of Rough.

The river is lower than it has been for years. The smallest boats have trouble in getting over the bars.

Mr. Beavin Tucker, of Stephensport and Mrs. Barbour, of this city, were married in Cannellton last Thursday.

J. L. Miller, Alex Boyd and H. A. Oles have all just done brick pavements in front of their residences.

Fine Jersey bull for sale or exchange, good pedigree, light color, 4 years old. M. M. Freeman.

A number of our people took in the Fall Celebration at Louisville last week. The grade is high but the price is low.

My Mr. X you paid cash and got them at $2.30, but you bought them of a credit house, and Mr. S, your neighbor, bought them on a credit at the same of the same house. The Cash sells them at $2.00.

A merchant who sells on a credit can't sell for cash at cash prices for fear of getting the will of his credit customers. If he had Mr. X's cash he could sell at $2.00 and charged Mr. S, $2.30, who is a good customer, the latter would have been dissatisfied. The credit merchant has to make his credit price by selling at all alike or lower the best of his credit customers. To get them right you have to buy where they are sold exclusively for cash.

Fifty pair of cassimere pants at less than cash rates to close out. Also fifteen suits heavy cassimere at closing out. On these suits you will save from $1 to $3.

Large line of Jeans pants just received lined and unlined. Twelve little boys' suits closing out prices.

Dr. S. advertises to sell it at greatly reduced rates for ten days, at $12 to reduce his stock. That is just the figure the Cash has been selling it at all the time.

They give you a bargain occasionally, but for uniform low rates all the way through it will pay you to stick to the Cash. It is the only positively Cash house in the vicinity and speaks what it knows, when it says, you will save money fast by buying of it.

The Cash man appreciates your custom very highly, but don't expect it or ask it the interest of that firm. Mr. Wright is a thorough gentleman and a first-class machinist. It was through him that the brick plant got most of their machinery.

There are several bad pavements being laid on the city streets. These pavements are the greatest drawback the town has to contend with. There is no excuse for their condition now, and they should be replaced with good ones.

The M. E. Conference which has been in session at Newport, Ky., for the past week adjourned Monday. E. L. Shepard was appointed presiding elder for the Louisville district. T. B. Sneed is sent to Harlanburg. Union Star is to be supplied.

The celebration at Louisville last week will be a very tame affair when compared to the Owensboro Fair this week. As one of the local papers says: "It will be the crowning event of the nineteenth century," and we are inclined to think so ourselves.

The Owensboro Inquirer says, "If Dr. T. B. Sneed is in the city, he is out to be cat's paw, he will lure the patrons of the fair this week the same beautiful weather they have previously enjoyed."

From all appearances the Doctors foot is a genuine one and his cinch on the weather is reliable.

If our Brandenburgh correspondent will promise to keep a secret we will tell her some of the attraction as it is at the corner of 5th and Jefferson, is Wash. Holt, Jim Blackburn, Julia Mercer, Dan Smith, Bill Yessels, Henry Woodson and others, showed us the ropes.

Rev. J. P. Dawson, of Danville, Ky., and Synodical Superintendent of Mississippi, who has been in our city for two weeks, has preached several sermons at the Presbyterian church manifesting in the preacher, a very high order of intellectual vigor and containing the meat of the soundest faith to suit the taste of the most orthodox believers. The object of his labor is to look after and repair the waste places of the Presbyterian Zion.

Some of the missionaries who are present, but active steps now in progress will soon fill the vacant pulp.

McElree's Wine of Cardul and THEODORE'S BLACK DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in Breckenridge County:

John W. Owen, Owensboro;
Brainerd & Lay, Stephensport;
J. J. Sever, Union Star;
Buy the Monarch shirt, it is the best.

Capt. Barlett with a large force of men were at work all day Sunday on Sulzer's building. It is now safe from the weather, and the addition of one story helps the appearance of it wonderfully. It is the only three story business house in the town or county.

We call the attention of persons wanting any kind of machinery to the advertisement of W. H. Gauchner & Bro., of Owensboro, in this issue. They supply all kinds of machinery, and make a specialty of repairs. They are reliable and any thing they give you will be just as represented. Give them a trial and you will not regret it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Keith were in Louisville last week attending the celebration.

A large congregation greeted the new minister, Rev. M. Cundiff, at the M. E. church Sunday.

Mr. Alonzo Moreman, of Brandenburg, spent several days last week with his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Drury.

Mr. Porter Hall and daughter, Miss Kate, of Illinois, were visiting Mrs. Susan Triplett, Mr. Hall's mother, last week.

Mrs. D. C. Johnson, Alonzo Bennett, Herbert Cain and Dr. J. M. Walker were in Louisville last week during the celebration.

Mr. W. N. Drury, of the Cash store was in Louisville last week, where he selected an immense assortment of goods for the fall trade.

At the residence of Hon. Geo. Richardson, Wednesday morning October 7th, will be solemnized the marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Julia to Mr. Will Brown, of Louisville.

The Cash store is opening this week a large stock of boots and shoes of a better quality than is usually found in a retail house. Calls special attention to its line of genuine Milwaukee grain goods in men's, women and children's wear. The grade is high but the price is low.

My Mr. X you paid cash and got them at $2.30, but you bought them of a credit house, and Mr. S, your neighbor, bought them on a credit at the same of the same house. The Cash sells them at $2.00.

A merchant who sells on a credit can't sell for cash at cash prices for fear of getting the will of his credit customers. If he had Mr. X's cash he could sell at $2.00 and charged Mr. S, $2.30, who is a good customer, the latter would have been dissatisfied. The credit merchant has to make his credit price by selling at all alike or lower the best of his credit customers. To get them right you have to buy where they are sold exclusively for cash.

Fifty pair of cassimere pants at less than cash rates to close out. Also fifteen suits heavy cassimere at closing out. On these suits you will save from $1 to $3.

Large line of Jeans pants just received lined and unlined. Twelve little boys' suits closing out prices.

Dr. S. advertises to sell it at greatly reduced rates for ten days, at $12 to reduce his stock. That is just the figure the Cash has been selling it at all the time.

They give you a bargain occasionally, but for uniform low rates all the way through it will pay you to stick to the Cash. It is the only positively Cash house in the vicinity and speaks what it knows, when it says, you will save money fast by buying of it.

The Cash man appreciates your custom very highly, but don't expect it or ask it the interest of that firm. Mr. Wright is a thorough gentleman and a first-class machinist. It was through him that the brick plant got most of their machinery.

There are several bad pavements being laid on the city streets. These pavements are the greatest drawback the town has to contend with. There is no excuse for their condition now, and they should be replaced with good ones.

The M. E. Conference which has been in session at Newport, Ky., for the past week adjourned Monday. E. L. Shepard was appointed presiding elder for the Louisville district. T. B. Sneed is sent to Harlanburg. Union Star is to be supplied.

The celebration at Louisville last week will be a very tame affair when compared to the Owensboro Fair this week. As one of the local papers says: "It will be the crowning event of the nineteenth century," and we are inclined to think so ourselves.

The Owensboro Inquirer says, "If Dr. T. B. Sneed is in the city, he is out to be cat's paw, he will lure the patrons of the fair this week the same beautiful weather they have previously enjoyed."

From all appearances the Doctors foot is a genuine one and his cinch on the weather is reliable.

If our Brandenburgh correspondent will promise to keep a secret we will tell her some of the attraction as it is at the corner of 5th and Jefferson, is Wash. Holt, Jim Blackburn, Julia Mercer, Dan Smith, Bill Yessels, Henry Woodson and others, showed us the ropes.

Rev. J. P. Judge Stuart Coming Home.

The following from the Owensboro Messenger will be read with a great deal of pleasure by Judge Stuart's many friends in Breckenridge and Meade counties. It is related that while All Stuart went back to Ashville, N. C. after his sister's funeral, he delivered many kindly and affectionate messages to his father from his old Owensboro friends, which were mainly to the effect that they wanted him to come back to his old home and pass his remaining days, and All told him when he got well enough he would bring him. Judge Stuart had been sick for weeks, and it was thought he would never get up again. He was so cheered up at this, however, that he insisted on getting up and dressing himself and did so, and has been up ever since, and as soon as he is strong enough to travel he will be brought back to his old Kentucky home.

The Seeds of Flowers.

In popular conception, the seed of the flower resides in its perfume. But certain loveliest flower seeds sometimes exhibit singular repulsive properties for individuals of the human family. There have been those even who could not endure the fragrance of the rose. To my knowledge one observer finds in the scent of lilacs an unpleasant reminder of the odor of escaping gas. Another makes no distinction between the breath of magnolia and the smell of fresh cornmeal. To me the odor of the rose is identical with that of the bamboos sprawling luxuriantly among its purple flames, and the first time the delicate, feathery flower of a peach plum was brought me, surely there was the same I had noted in downy chicks and nestling birds.

Besides the gratification which flowers provide for the sense of sight and the sense of smell, there is another and quite distinct pleasure—that which is conveyed in the contact of a flower; as in a single spray of lilacs, brushed against your face, the dabling touches of apple blossoms dashed with rain, the red velvet sleekness of the lily, which have an old time pot commensurate in describing the lily's hand; so smooth, so white, so soft it was, "as if had been a woman's glove." Further tactile differentiation is to be found in the warm, vital and airy touch of the rose (so unlike the quality of the lily petal), in the vicid sultriness of the poppy and the petunia, in the fleshy thickness and dewy gloss of the morning blossom.—Edith M. Thomas in Atlantic.

Pre-revolutionary Errors.

Most of the shortcomings of the old method of history writing resulted from the fact that the world was looked at from a static point of view, or as if a picture of the world were a series of detached pictures of things at rest. The human race and its terrestrial habitat were tacitly assumed to have been always very much the same as at present. One was treated much like another, and when comparisons were made it was after a manner as different from the modern comparative method as alchemy was different from chemistry.

As men's studies have been turned in such a direction as to enable them to appreciate the immensity of the results that have been achieved by the cumulative action of minute causes, they were disposed to attach too much importance to the importance of the individual—whether upon any sound theory must be regarded as of great importance—they not only magnified nobly but rendered it unintelligible when they sought to transform human heroes into demigods.

It thus appears that the way in which our forefathers treated history was part and parcel of the way in which they regarded the world. Whether in history or in the physical sciences, they found themselves confronted by a seemingly chaotic mass of facts with which they could deal only in a vague and groping manner and in many determinate details. Professor John Fiske in Popular Science Monthly.

Earthworms in the New World.

It is a remarkable fact that in two kinds of earthworms, inhabitants of the New World, the little bristles, which are the locomotive appendages, are greatly enlarged in the tail segments. In one of these, the Diastoma, the bristles in question are enormous and enlarged and of a hooklike form, so that the creature must be able to retain a very firm grip upon the soil. These facts are surprising, as an earthworm is perhaps an animal in which we should not expect much manifestation of intellect; but, on the other hand, Mr. Romanoff discovers about the intellectual possibilities of Bally, the chipmunk, who may be regarded as having moved the whole animal creation up a peg or two in mental caliber.—Chamberlain's Journal.

Queen Mary's Laiding.

Mary Queen of Scots, had a favorite lapdog, which is said to have been present at the execution of its poor mistress in Fotheringhay castle. After the royal lady had been beheaded the faithful creature refused to leave her dead body and had to be carried off by a halberdier. At that period lapdogs were the pets of men as well as of women. Dr. Beley, a relation of the unhappy Queen Anne Boleyn, wrote in 1534, "as it is written, 'the dog on one.' Anne once asked him to grant her one wish and in return he should have whatever he might desire. Knowing his affection for the dog, she begged it of him, and of course the dog had nothing to do but to give it to her. 'And now, madam,' he said, 'you promise to grant my request.' 'I will,' quoth the queen, 'and I pray you, give me my dog again.'—Ex-change.

PERIQUE TOBACCO.

The Reason for Its Popular Flavor and the Method of Curing.

In the case of perique tobacco the stripping of the midrib from the leaf causes the leaf to fall into two lateral halves, which are placed on top of each other in such a manner that the blade of one half of the leaf alternates with the apex of the other. These are then twisted into what are called "torques." These torques are folded upon themselves, side by side, and are placed in silver boxes, which are about twelve inches square, and subjected to pressure. After twenty-four hours these torques are taken out and repacked in the same manner as before every twenty-four hours for a period of a week, the idea being evidently to subject the torques to a uniform pressure throughout. After this period has elapsed the torques are repacked every three days for about two weeks. During all this time the tobacco is subjected to a constant steady pressure with a press of the most primitive kind.

I should not forget to state that after the tobacco has been placed in the press one week a black juice flows out of the box, which has a pleasant odor, not unlike freshly cooked prunes. Squares of cut tobacco, 18 by 18 inches, are laid out, and on these the torques are opened, or, to use the terms of the English speaking Americans, the torques are unraveled, great care being exercised to prevent the carrots from opening and the whole wrapped in a cloth, usually made of cotton.

The largest leaves are laid upon the cotons first, so that when rolled the larger leaves will serve as a covering for the carrots presently to be described. The smaller leaves are placed longitudinally, so that the larger ones will then be one-half to four pounds are placed upon the piece of cotton, the ends of which are turned inwardly. The cotons and contents are now rolled into cartridges, the ends of the cotons are pulled out and a string tied to each end to prevent the carrots from opening and the whole wrapped in a cloth, usually made of cotton.

The wrapping is performed in the primitive manner that characterizes the operation throughout. Use is made of a wooden rod, and a rope, and the rope is made fast to the carriage, passed around a post (driven into the ground), a twist is now made around the carriage, and with each turn of the carriage the pressure is increased. This is continued until the whole of the carrots is covered; the end is made fast by passing it through several turns of the rope. This finishes the carriage, but before it is placed upon the market, it is allowed to age, which is usually six months to a year. During this time the tobacco is allowed to mature, a slow fermentation, which gives the aroma and taste that distinguish this tobacco from all others.

The amount of perique grown and manufactured has averaged, during the last few years, about 15,000,000 pounds of four pounds per annum. Wholesale tobaccoists have expressed much doubt that any modern method could produce a tobacco with the same flavor as that produced by the old and primitive manner just described.—Pharmaceutical Era.
